Extending the pedestrian boulevard on George Street, Sydney

We are extending the pedestrian boulevard of George Street, from Bathurst Street to Railway Square, as part of George Street South Pedestrianisation project.

Construction on George Street between Bathurst Street and Goulburn Street is well advanced. We will soon start work on George Street, from Goulburn Street to Rawson Place.

The project is supported by the NSW Government and will ensure everyone can move around comfortably while maintaining physical distancing. The project will reduce through-traffic and provide wider footpaths with more trees and street furniture. This is part of our work to create more people-friendly streets and new spaces for businesses to operate, while attracting visitors back into the city centre.

You can see plans of the works at www.city.sydney/george-street.

Construction timing and staging

Our contractor, Sydney Civil is carrying out the works. The works are occurring in stages, to minimise disruption to people and businesses.

Construction south of Goulburn Street is planned to start from around mid-July 2021. By then, construction between Bathurst Street and Goulburn Street will be in final stages with some paving, pits and poles works ongoing.

Works located near the light rail track slab are required to be done when the light rail is not operating. These works are planned to be carried out over the weekend commencing Friday 23 July from 9pm to 5am on Monday 26 July, during a planned light rail maintenance shutdown by Transport for NSW.

Local access and emergency services access will be maintained.

The Sydney Civil Community Liaison Officer will contact you before construction starts in your area and keep you informed about the details and program of works on either side of the tracks.
